

Expand your little green book.

Join the 200 scientific organizations and almost 5000 individuals that belong to—and benefit from—membership in AIBS. Take part in coalition activities in research, education, and public policy. Read the peer-reviewed journal BioScience. Utilize ActionBioscience.org. To learn more, go to www.aibs.org

American Institute of Biological Sciences

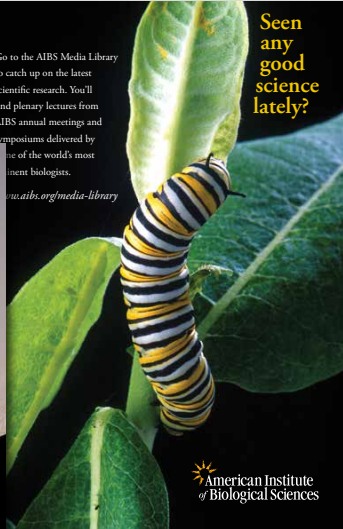

American Institute of Biological Sciences

How do these issues affect your life?

- Why preserve life's variety?
- How fragile is our planet?
- What does the genome reveal?
- How is biotechnology changing the world?
- What is life's history on Earth?
- Why is it the age of biology?
- Why improve bioscience literacy?

Visit www.actionbioscience.org to learn more

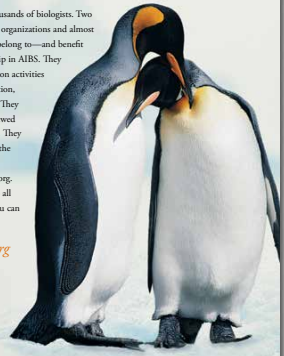

Seen any good science lately?

Go to the AIBS Media Library to catch up on the latest scientific research. You'll find plenary lectures from AIBS annual meetings and symposiums delivered by some of the world's most eminent biologists.

www.aibs.org/media-library

American Institute of Biological Sciences

Expand your little green book.

Network with thousands of biologists. Two hundred scientific organizations and almost 5000 individuals belong to—and benefit from—membership in AIBS. They take part in coalition activities in research, education, and public policy. They read the peer-reviewed journal BioScience. They take advantage of the education website ActionBioscience.org. AIBS members do all this, and more. You can too. To join, go to www.aibs.org

American Institute of Biological Sciences